Volunteering

Is there a place for me?

You go to church nearly every Sunday. Perhaps you attend midweek services, and give offerings. Why would you need to volunteer?

One of the reasons for church volunteering is that it causes you to grow closer to others who are grounded in your church and helps you connect to the church body. When you join as a sides-person and greet people for service and help them learn more about the church, become an assistant and help teach the younger children, or spend part of your day cleaning the building, you begin to learn more about the people you're working alongside. You also begin to care more about the things you're involved with and understand that the church is not perfect, but is definitely worth the effort. As you begin to volunteer, you stop only taking in the preaching, teaching, counselling, and wisdom being poured out, and start giving back. Instead of just being a seat warmer watching the show, you have the ability to start a true relationship with the church - and relationships go both ways. It's an opportunity to go from wondering when the preacher is going to notice or offend you to actually being a part of the lifeblood of the church. In a way, volunteering can keep you from feeling isolated by getting involved – speak to our church wardens or our vicar – your help is required!

WORKING PARTY

'In order to save on expensive cleaning and maintenance, we hold a monthly working party on a Saturday morning starting at 09.30.

Together we clean and tidy the church, do a bit of necessary DIY or gardening, have a coffee and often some home-made goodies – and finish by about 11.30.

We are enormously grateful to the few loyal helpers who turn up month after month – but we desperately need a few more.

Please consider putting the dates into your diary and coming along. All are welcome – if you can do basic DIY please let us know in advance so that the churchwardens can plan jobs in advance.

Working party is normally on the second Saturday of each month...

NOTE the next ones will be on Saturday 5 OCTOBER at 9.30.

See you there, JAN

FIRST STEPS
11TH SEPTEMBER 2019
TAKING CARE OF GOD'S
WORLD

Our naughty little sheep is beginning to notice that the mornings are getting darker. Soon it will be dark when he gets up. He's not looking forward to that, he tells me. It is rather a grey morning though he's hoping that the sun will shine for our First Steps service this afternoon. It is looking slightly brighter when our naughty little sheep, his friends and I walk up to church. Linda arrives at about the same time and our naughty little sheep and his friends rush to their usual places as Linda and I begin to get things ready for our little service. Jan and Anne soon come along to help too. When everything is ready we wait patiently to see if anyone will join us. Finally Mum Emma with Abigail and Rupert arrive to keep us company closely followed by Auntie Lisa. A very small but select crowd and we are very pleased to see them. Abigail is wearing very pretty pink rabbit shoes. Do they make them for big lady feet, I wonder? I would like some, too.

When everyone is settled with jingle bells at the ready, we light our candles and begin our service. Our glittery dragon is with us today. He wasn't able to come to the Teddy Bears' Picnic because the weather was very wet and dragons and wet weather don't really go together. Our naughty little sheep thinks that he may be taking a bit of a chance today, so we shall see! We're thinking about how we should take care of God's world. It is a precious gift, isn't it? And we really should look after it the best way that we can. We sing about going to the park and having a fun time, and being very careful to tidy up afterwards if we have a picnic. And we do love a picnic, don't we? Abigail is a lively happy little girl and she loves joining in as we sing some of our favourite songs. When we sing about frogs she does some wonderful hopping.

We remember that Audrey Hedgehog is getting big and fat, eating lots of snails and slugs and worms, so that she can soon go to sleep, snug in her leaf house for the winter, ready to wake up again when springtime comes. We'll miss her, won't we? Abigail tells me that she is very careful when she picks up snails because they have their houses on their backs. We think how funny it must be to have your house on your back! Rupert is a very smiley, happy boy today, having a lovely time jingling his jingle bells. Oh what fun! We sing about Jesus' love for us, and about the beautiful world that God has created for us, with rivers and mountains and twinkly stars in the night time sky. Soon it is time to gather all our prayers into the prayer that Jesus taught us, The Lord's Prayer. Then we blow out our candles and off we go into the hall for our refreshments. Our naughty little sheep and his friends are out there quick as a flash and then they make themselves comfortable so that they can keep an eye on Abigail and Rupert.

I know we have been a small but select group today but we have had a lovely time together and the children have been a delight. We hope that they will come along for our next First Steps service on 9th October when maybe a few more will join us.

SHOE BOX APPEAL 2019

It's that time again another piece for the magazine."3 Steps to Heaven" with basics in a BLYTHSWOOD shoe box.

Basics perhaps does not seem very heavenly but to the recipient of a Blythswood shoebox they appear that way. Once again Christ Church is appealing for shoe boxes filled with items to make a hard life just a little easier for children and adults in eastern Europe. How can you help just follow the 3 Steps.

Step 1 Pick up a leaflet from the back of the church- (organisations will receive some)

Step 2 Find and decorate an average size shoe box ( there will be a few in church)

Step 3 Fill the box with appropriate items and return to church by WEDNESDAY 13 NOVEMBER ( for delivery in time to Christmas)

Will you take those 3 steps to make someone's life a little more heavenly this Christmastide.

Happy walking and thank you. Veronica

Readings from the Old Testament

As we had recently introduced a reading from the Old Testament into our 10am service I preached on this change on 1st September. Several people subsequently suggested that I should put this into the magazine. As the full sermon would take up too much space, here is a shortened version.

"I want us to test our imaginations a little. Let's suppose, for a moment, that Jesus has joined us in our congregation here today. Which parts of our service do you think he might recognise, might feel most at home with? Certainly, he would recognise much of the prayer of consecration – after all, we use his own words, the words he used when celebrating that last Passover with his disciples. He would surely, too, echo the words of the Lord's Prayer, the prayer he used to teach his disciples and us how to pray. And in our gospel reading he would recognise the account of his teaching and his earthly ministry. But there remains one part of our service with which he would be familiar on a day-to-day basis and which he would know almost by heart – and that is, of course, our reading from the Old Testament. It is five Sundays since we introduced these readings and I just want to make a few comments.

The Old Testament fulfils many roles and I'm going to touch, just briefly, on four of them. In the first place it contains a historical account of the founding of the Jewish nation, its struggles, its suffering and its eventual settlement in the promised land.

History is very important in placing events in context. For example, however important it might be to study the events of the first and second world wars, history helps us understand the origins of those conflicts. No teacher would dream of ignoring everything which happened before the precise dates on which war was declared. In much the same way the Old Testament forms a backdrop against which we can better understand the New Testament, setting out God's plans, purposes and promises which he fulfils with the coming of the Messiah.

My second point is the importance of the Old Testament in what it says about that promised Messiah, especially in the writings of the prophets and particularly Isaiah. The New Testament writers often conclude their accounts of some event in Jesus's life with the words, "in accordance with the Scriptures." When we recite the Nicene Creed as part of our communion service, we use the words, "on the third day he rose again, in accordance with the Scriptures." Jesus saw the Old Testament as referring to himself and the prophecies being fulfilled in him.

My third point is that much of the teaching that we find in the New Testament is built on the framework supplied by the Old. We know from the Gospels that Jesus was well versed in the Old Testament writings, which was just as well because time and again his enemies tried to trip him up by referring to some law or other that they fancied he was breaking and he was quick to put them right and challenge their hypocrisy. Jesus was conscious that many of these strict legalistic observances were relevant to times long past and not to the age into which he was born so he interpreted them according to the needs of the day. There is surely a strong message here for those who, even in our own day and age, try to quote some of the Old Testament laws to fit their own bigoted views on life.

My final point is that the Old Testament is great writing in its own right. It contains stories like Noah and the flood, David and Goliath, Pharaoh's army being drowned chasing the Israelites through the Red Sea and many more. It has great poetry, for example in the Psalms and in the Song of Songs. And, as someone once remarked about Shakespeare, it is full of quotations, many of which have passed into common, everyday use. Here are just a few of the dozens you can find by searching online: "bite the dust, the blind leading the blind, by the skin of your teeth, fly in the ointment, nothing but skin and bones, rise and shine, sign of the times, twinkling of an eye, wits end and the writing on the wall." The Old Testament, too, has influenced great poetry, like Paradise Lost; music, like Hayden's "The Creation" and the coronation anthem "Zadok the Priest"; masterpieces of art and sculpture like Michelangelo's David and, in our own day, "Joseph and the amazing technicolour dream coat." In the world of pop, too, we have Boney M's "By the rivers of Babylon" and "turn, turn, turn," by the Byrds - but perhaps I'm showing my age with those last two.

Despite what some might think, introducing Old Testament readings into our liturgy was not some sadistic move to confuse readers faced with some of those unpronounceable and tongue twisting names which occur in its pages. There is a lot more to the Old Testament than meets the eye."

John Hougham

In August Mothers 'Union held their annual T@3 garden party which was very popular and raised £260 for MU funds. There was a raffle, bring and buy, quizzes and craft activities. A mixture of ages attended and everybody enjoyed themselves.

On 10 September we held our meeting in the hall. Unfortunately due to a mix up our expected speaker on medical detection dogs did not come but hopefully we will rebook for next year. We had refreshments and notices and asked if anybody had ideas for next year's calendar. Our October meeting will be a talk by Christine and Martin Sewell on their visit to Hong Kong and China

11th Milton Brownies at Sleep-over

"On Saturday 7th September 11th Milton Christchurch Brownies joined other units for a sleep-over at Soar trampoline park in Gillingham.

In order to gain their Soar badge the girls needed to complete a number of activities including the Wiggle ladder, Dodgeball and Battle Beam. (Even the helpers couldn't resist the Battle Beam ! )

The night ended in a Wipeout competition and Chloe in our unit came 2nd which was great !

After not much sleep and more early morning bouncing, we all enjoyed our Bacon/sausage rolls and headed home for some rest."

Jonah in Nineveh

Jonah tried to escape from the purpose that God had for him by fleeing on a boat from the port of Joppa. He could not escape the will of God though, and when the sailors threw him overboard to try to save their ship, he was swallowed by a big fish, which left him on the shore. From there he went to Nineveh.

The city of Nineveh was so big that it took Jonah three whole days to work his way across it, shouting himself hoarse as he went. But to his great surprise, the ruthless Assyrians listened to what he had to say. When the king himself got to hear Jonah's message, he sent out a royal proclamation ordering everyone to begin praying and fasting at once.

When dawn broke on the 40th day nothing happened. The sun set on the 40th day and still nothing happened. "We have been saved," cried the people of Nineveh. "God has forgiven us!" They sang and danced and rejoiced, offering prayers and sacrifices to God – all except Jonah, who stomped off into the desert.

"Why have you spared them, Lord?" he moaned up to heaven, stacking a few sticks together as a shelter from the heat. "They aren't even Jewish! If you're going to save sinners like these, I'd rather be dead than serve you."

God taught Jonah one last lesson. Overnight, a broad, shady tree grew over Jonah that guarded him from the burning sun till evening and kept him cool. But next morning, the disappointed prophet found that the tree had withered away. And Jonah needed its protection more than ever. All day long, not only did the sun blaze down but a scorching wind blew across the sands.

"Lord, the death of that tree is the last straw." Jonah groaned. "Please let me die." How can you be so upset about the death of a tree you didn't plant or water," the Lord scolded, "when you're cross with me for not killing the thousands of people in Nineveh?"

Jonah finally realized that God created all the people of the world, and he cares for people from all nations, not just his own; that the Lord's kingdom stretches over the whole world.
